DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on October 31, 2007 has been entered.

Claims 1-5, 7, 9-20, and 38-41 are pending.

Applicant's remarks, in addition to the declaration of Dr. McBride, filed October 31, 2007 averring UV radiation as significantly different from proton radiation, fluoroscopic radiation, alpha radiation, beta radiation and gamma radiation have been considered and are found persuasive to withdraw the outstanding rejection under 35 USC 103(a).

Upon further consideration, new grounds of rejections are set forth below:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-5, 7, 9-20, and 38-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the vitamin D compounds recited in claim 1, does not reasonably provide enablement for the metabolites of the vitamin D compounds. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. In the instant case, the specification fails to provide information that would allow the skilled artisan to practice the instant invention without undue experimentation. Attention is directed to In re Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1400 (CAFC 1988) at 1404 where the court set forth the eight factors to consider when assessing if a disclosure would have required undue experimentation. Citing Ex parte Forman, 230 USPQ 546 (BdApls 1986) at 547 the court recited eight factors:

- 1) the quantity of experimentation necessary,
- 2) the amount of direction or guidance provided,
- 3) the presence of absence of working examples,
- 4) the nature of the invention,
- 5) the state of the prior art,
- 6) the relative skill of those in the art
- 7) the predictability of the art, and
- 8) the breadth of the claims.

Applicant fails to set forth the criteria that defines "metabolites" of the vitamin D compounds. Additionally, Applicant fails to provide information allowing the skilled artisan to ascertain these compounds without undue experimentation. In the instant case, there are no "metabolites" of the vitamin D compounds examples are set forth, thereby failing to provide sufficient working examples. It is noted that generally most metabolites are not active, although active metabolites for other drugs are well known, but they are exceptions. The instant specification fails to define the class of compounds required. The pharmaceutical art is unpredictable, requiring each embodiment to be individually assessed for physiological activity. The instant claims read on all "metabolites" of the vitamin D compounds, necessitating an exhaustive search for the embodiments suitable to practice the claimed invention. Applicants fail to provide information sufficient to practice the claimed invention, absent undue experimentation.

Claims 1-5, 7, 9-20, and 38-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for treatment and reduction of radiation injuries such as radiation dermatitis, vomiting, bone marrow failure and intestinal death, does not reasonably provide enablement for the treatment of instant incineration. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. It is illogical and impossible to treat condition such as "instant incineration" – once the person is incinerated (burnt to ashes), there is nothing to treat. Therefore, such treatment method is not enabled by the instant specification.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

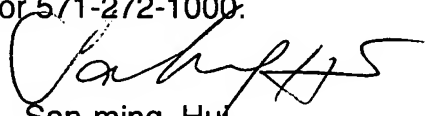

Claims 1-5, 7, 9-20, and 38-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The phrase "metabolites thereof" recited in claim 1 renders the claims indefinite as to what compounds being encompassed by the claims.
